LIFT HIGH THE CROSS

Truett Broadus, minister of education and Dr. Sidney Ball, Sunday School superintendent of the First Baptist Church wish to announce the success of the Sunday School attendance campaign entitled "Lift High The Cross" which is now in its final week.

A goal of 175 in average attendance was set for the month of October. The first week of the campaign there was an attendance of 160, the second week 172, and the third week 176. The final week ended this Sunday and it is anticipated that the attendance will go well over the goal.

The First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis is proud of the splendid manner in which its total Sunday School organization has risen to meet this challenge and its leaders take this opportunity to express appreciation for the fine response of its people. Through the efforts of the leaders and the people alike, a twenty-five percent increase in average attendance has been obtained over the same period for last month. The percentage of increase should go up even higher on this final Sunday of the campaign.

The leadership of the First Baptist Church feel that this steady week-to-week growth in attendance is on a solid foundation and will continue to be the case even after the campaign is completed.

Officers later determined the electric iron was pawned at a Bay St. Louis service station for $3.75 worth of gasoline, Marquar said.

ORDER ALL BILLS PAID

A motion by Ed P. Orte at a recess meeting of Hancock County Board of Education, Saturday to pay all bills docketed for September with the exception of bills for athletic equipment for North Central School and Mary Carter Paint was carried. The Board adjourned until 9 a. m. Saturday.

JACKSON, Miss. - The Mississippi Supreme Court ruled this week efforts to redistrict Hancock County must be launched by petition of the voters and not by court order.

Attorney Upton Sisson of Gulfport, representing the group seeking to redistrict the county, said he would ask the U. S. Supreme Court to halt the Nov. 5 general election for county posts pending an appeal of the ruling to the federal high court.

The Hancock County group brought up points under the federal constitution relating to guarantees of equal protection under the law.

The state-high court decision ruled the citizens group had another route to secure relief.

The ruling upheld a decision by Hancock Chancery Court, which had ruled that Powell Glass Jr. and other citizens of the county could take advantage of a law permitting a petition signed by 25 per cent of the electors asking a reshuffling of district lines.

In an opinion by Justice Taylor McElroy, the court said the petition law was "a perfect remedy" to the situation which the county officials admitted was inequitable.

McElroy said the Hancock county case was different from cases based on the U. S. Supreme Court decision permitting court orders forcing a redrawing of district lines because the Tennessee case decision noted "Tennessee has no initiative and referendum" law to permit citizens to launch proceedings outside the courts.

"It is to be noted that the election commissioners and the board of supervisors admit that the county should be and will be redistricted at a more propitious time," McElroy wrote.

The suit was filed against the county election commissioners and the board of supervisors entered the case as a friend of the court, saying it was the real party in interest in the matter.

The board said it desired redistricting but that it would be impracticable and unfair to redistrict until the population was permanently located.

The board noted that the government had taken over most of beat 2 for use in its missile test facility under construction in Hancock and Pearl River Counties.

Glass had sought a court order blocking elections until redistricting was accomplished, or asking the new election be on an at-large basis or within districts set up by the courts.

He contended the present officials would not redistrict "as required by law" and will unless restrained by the court conduct the next election by the present existing invalid and unconstitutional supervisors districts.

He said the county had not been redistricted since it was established more than 100 years ago and as a result he suffered "irreparable damage in the denial of equal rights and equal protection" as guaranteed by the constitution.

The court noted that although the state constitution required there be five districts in each county "with due regard to equality of population," at no time "had 25 percent of the electors asked redistricting as required by law."

McElroy also noted "that the election commissioners and the board of supervisors admit that the county - will be redistricted at a more propitious time due to the fact that NASA (the National Aeronautics and Space Administration) is taking over the entire beat 2 for governmental experimental purposes."

Chamber of Commerce Report Of Meeting

The Board of Directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce at their meeting on Tuesday evening, October 21, 1963, elected that a committee be appointed to make a study of and determine a program of aggressive action for the year 1964. The Board authorized Chamber President Warren Carver to name the committee and the committee's report will be presented at the next regular meeting of the Board.

The hiring of a full time manager for the Chamber of Commerce was another matter that was discussed. Since the term of office of certain members of the present Board will expire within the next month no decision was reached on the matter of the full time manager.

By virtue of his office the president of the Chamber of Commerce was named to a proposed Regional Planning Committee to be established by Mississippi Test Operation officials for the purpose of identifying, discussing, coordinating and recommending in solutions or a course of action in connection with problems that will have an impact on communities in Hancock, Pearl River, and Harrison Counties in Mississippi, and St. Tammany Parish in Louisiana.

It was pointed out to the Board of Directors by officials of MTO that the economic impact of the National Space Program on the MTO area as related to the 1700 permanent personnel on board by mid-1965, is estimated to be as follows:

New families moving in, 1,500
Population increase in area, 9,630
School age children, 2,425
New jobs created (outside NASA), 975

Personal income increase (annually), $18,900,000.00
Bank deposits increase (annually), $8,850,000.00

"I never realized how much I really depended on the telephone," says Virgil Bigham, Jr. of Leland and president of the Mississippi Education Association. "Then I kept a record. In just one week, I would have spent about 24 hours in time and over $98 in trips to do in person what I did by phone."

Think how many ways your telephone helps you every day. In your business, civic or personal activities, there may be even more ways your telephone can help save time and money. Records show that telephones do so much . . . yet cost so little.

"Dear God..."

When Grandmother was a girl, prayer was no stranger to her. She learned early to turn her thoughts to God and to ask Him for courage and for guidance.

The country was younger then. Men were still probing physical horizons in search of a better life for their families. Their quest took them to the sea in ships, or along the danger-filled trails to the West. Sometimes the women shared their peril. Other times, they stayed at home and waited, and that was even harder. But whichever their course, they prayed.

Our horizons are different today, and our lives filled with less danger. But we need prayer just as much — if not more — than we did in Grandmother's day.

Remember that prayer is our greatest source of strength. If the habit of prayer has become unfamiliar to you, start rediscovering it by attending church services regularly.

Katcha Ketchum

Afraid to talk about the ideal weather of the past few weeks.

Ideal for fishing, ideal for golfing, ideal for most any kind of sport. As to fishing and hunting, of course a little cooler weather at this time of year helps plenty. When the water is colder the fish strike harder and fight ferociously and as far as hunting is concerned cold weather is tops for ducks, geese and doves. The geese season opened Saturday, that is the first part of a split season. A little too hot for hunting geese just now. Some geese have been seen at the mouth of Pearl River and out in the marshes. Won't be long before they will be here in full force. Local hunters are checking their decoys and getting their ducks boats in order for what looks like a good season on all kinds of water fowl. The only thing bad about duck and geese hunting is that $3.00 duck stamp, rather costly, but best in the end. Hunting without a stamp keeps one jittery and takes a little of the sport out of hunting, especially when the game warden is on your heels.

Speaking of fishing, August Rauxet, Luke Elliott and yours truly caught a wash tub and a half of specks, white trout and other fish out in the marshes Saturday. The white trout were larger than usual and put up a hard fight. Some of them better than 2 pounds.

Contrary to the belief of some fishermen, white trout are as good as specks as far as eating goes provided they are properly prepared when freshly caught and put in containers surrounded by a little water when stored in the freezer. This helps keep in the flavor and make the fish stay solid.

Speckles are still being caught way up Jordan River by trolling and with live bait according to reports. Fish are being caught out on both the R. R. and Hi-way bridges, mostly specks, white trout and ground mullets.

Louis Tregre on a fishing party with friends spent three days at Chandelure Island this week. Haven't heard how many fish they caught.

Martin Okransinski returned to his home in Baltimore after a two week vacation spent here. Martin went fishing every day and caught his share of fish.

He is already looking forward to returning next year. He has visited here for the past 10 years. Like McArthur he said "I Shall Return."

Plenty of bait shrimp are being caught at the mouth of Cat Fish Bayou just now and along the mud flat. They are just the right size for bait.

Green trout as well as specks go for live shrimp. Fishing for green trout with live bait is called bobbing. This is done by moving along the banks using a perch pole, with a light cork and fishing rather shallow. Around stumps, bushes and logs are ideal places for catching them.

Sorry to hear of the death of Alex Cospelich last week. Alex had been a fisherman all his life and a good one at that.

November opens a number of hunting seasons and it looks like a good year for most all kinds of game. Will give you more on this next week.

The meat ball and spaghetti supper held last Thursday for the S. J. A. benefit was a grand success and as usual well attended. The workers both ladies and men should be complimented.

Marquez's Bar had a free shrimp boil Sunday night. A good crowd attended. Thanks Eddie the shrimp were good.

While playing golf, stick to the old rule. Slow players should allow oncoming players to play through. It simplifies matters a whole lot and saves a lot of ugly remarks. Be a good sport.

A hint to fishermen - Examine stomach contents when cleaning fish. In this way you can learn what fish are feeding on. That's the way you can know what kind of bait to use next time. It usually pays off.

The old saying "Follow the Birds" really works well. Sea gulls, terns and other sea birds usually hover over a spot where there are bait fish - being driven to the surface by game fish. This usually shows you where the fish are feeding. This especially is true of speckles, they mostly feed along the shoreline but can be found over a shell reef off shore also.

Floundering is best at this time of the year at Campbell's Bayou near where it runs into Pearl River. There is a shelf near the shore and flounders lay on this shelf in about one foot of water. Flounder from a boat of course dark nights are the best.

A few soft crabs were caught this past weekend in the early morning hours when the tide was real low. One of our best catches was made in February, believe it or not. Keep trying, anything can happen.

What's the most important rule of all for fishing surface plugs? According to Dick Kotis of the Fred Arbogast Company, it is "Be quiet." You have to slip up on big bass with no clattering tackle boxes banging against the boat. Drop your lure quietly. In clear water make long casts. Let the plug lie and the ripples clear. Twitch it with a flick of the rod tip. Rest. Twitch it again. "In other words," says Kotis, "slow down and hold onto your hat."

LOCAL SPORTSMAN

HARRY "WOP" GLOVER "Wop" as he is best known, is both a hunter and fisherman. His favorite pastime is quail hunting and owns some of the best registered bird dogs in the county. During the quail season he gets his share and enjoys making his friends get theirs. At hunting he is good and not bad at catching his share of fish. Fly fishing is his second love. Wop is from New Orleans but spent most of his life at Bay St. Louis.

STENNIS PLAN TO HALT TRADE WITH CASTRO WINS SENATE OK

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Senator John Stennis has won another round in the Senate to bottle up and choke off foreign trade with Castro and his Communist regime in Cuba.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, during its lengthy consideration of the foreign aid authorization bill, accepted a Stennis amendment to cut off all foreign military aid to nations who allow their ships to transport strategic weapons, petroleum and other military and economic commodities to Castro's Cuba.

The Stennis amendment would cut off aid to any nation which fails to "take appropriate steps" to halt ships of its registry from transporting goods and material to Cuba.

Stennis, a member of the Appropriations and Armed Services Committee and an outspoken opponent against both Communism and foreign aid said:

"The adoption of my amendment is another major step in the direction of a ban on trade with Cuba by free world nations. This action will assist in hastening the day when the grim spectre of Communism is eliminated from our doorsteps."

Stennis, Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee, earlier this year presided over the hearings into the Soviet military buildup in Cuba. The Stennis Subcommittee recommended a harder line toward Cuba and Castro Communism.

LEGION PRESENTS TWO FLAGS TO NORTH CENTRAL

Joseph Benvenutti, Commander of Clement Bontemps Post No. 139 of the American Legion presented two flags to Hancock North Central School on Wednesday, October 16, in imposing ceremonies.

Ann Lee, President of the Beta Club, in accepting the flag for the school recognized the contributions made by the American Legion to school students.

The ceremony opened with a musical number by the Hancock North Central Band, under the direction of R. P. Vermilyes.

Invocation was offered by Hugh Sanford, Chaplain of the American Legion. Mr. Benvenutti, in presenting the flag to Ann Lee, gave the true meaning of the flag and the story of its origin.

A salute was fired by Legionnaires D. W. North, Al Summy, and John Wilkerson, while a color guard composed of H. R. Powell, J. W. Sells, Warren Buehler, Ed. Virgilio, Fred Bankston, and Edward Werling, stood by. As the flag was raised the band played the national anthem. Ann Lee led the assembled student body in the pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. J. D. Penton, school superintendent, thanked Mr. Benvenutti and the Legion for the flag and for the wonderful interest shown in the school. Special thanks were accorded Mr. Fred Fayard of the American Legion who had made the contacts and arrangements for the presentation.

The program closed to a march played by the band.

SOUTH ACCOUNTS FOR 36.7% TOTAL MORTGAGE INVESTMENTS

The South as a whole accounted for 36.7 percent of total mortgage investments of $46.9 billion held by United States Life Insurance Companies at the end of 1962. Percentages for other regions were: North Central, 25.5 percent; West, 22.5 percent and Northeast, 13.4 percent.

These figures will be published in an advertisement of the Southern Company system, of which Mississippi Power Company is a member, to appear in national publications during November.

The advertisement also discloses that life insurance company mortgage investments for the 4-state area of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi amounted to $4,267,903,000 at the close of 1962. This was an increase of 7.5 percent over 1961, the advertisement will say.

The current advertisement is one of a series of thirteen being published this year to "Report to the Nation" on the continuing progress of the South and the 4-state area in particular where its electric power companies operate.

Among the publications in which the series of advertisements is appearing are Newsweek, U. S. News & World Report, Nation's Business, Business Week and The Wall Street Journal.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE RUBEL PHILLIPS IS A "MODERATE" BY HIS OWN ADMISSION

In an audacious attempt to deceive the people of Mississippi, "Republican" leaders are parading their hand-picked gubernatorial candidate, Rubel Phillips, up and down the state in the role of a "conservative" . . . when by his own admission, in writing, Rubel Phillips is a "moderate"!

Read below from a letter Rubel Phillips wrote on the stationery of the Mississippi Public Service Commission, dated March 1, 1956:

Rubel Phillips wrote: "Personally, I think that Stevenson (Adlai, of United Nations fame) is the only hope for the South. Although he is considered by many, a moderate, that at least is a step in the right direction for us. It is my view that those of us who are taking the moderate course in respect to all social legislation will be recognized ten years from now as having taken the only practical course for people who believe in progressive government."

"I believe that ten years from now (Senator James O.) Eastland and (Congressman John Bell) Williams will enjoy the reputation they richly deserve, that of politicians whose only ambition was to perpetuate themselves in office. I further think that within the same period, men who think moderately on these questions will have assumed all the responsible positions in the State."

"It is essential that intelligent and cool thinking people remain in office even though it occasionally means that they have to give tacit support to measures they do not believe to be sound. There will be times that I, as chairman of this (Mississippi Public Service) Commission, will have to take positions that I do not believe to be either sound or right, but if I sacrifice whatever opportunities I may have to do something important in the future for a point of minor significance, then I will have been of benefit to no one. That is a painful admission for anyone in public office to have to make; nevertheless, if we are ambitious, we have to make it."

By this, his own written admission, Rubel Phillips is a "moderate" who favors the type of "social legislation" which would force integration of the races, a socialist "welfare state" and federal domination upon the proud and independent white citizens of Mississippi. This is the man the scalawag "Republican" leaders seek to pass off as a "conservative"!

By this, his own "painful admission", Rubel Phillips is the worst type of expedient politician, believing that the ends justify the means. This is the man who, with his now-familiar TV smirk, talks to you in vague generalities about "good government"!

Rubel Phillips predicted in 1956 that moderates of his stripe "will have assumed all the responsible positions in the State" by 1966. On Tuesday, November 5, the white conservative majority of Mississippi voters will tell him with their ballots how wrong he is. Half a million aroused Mississippians are going to the polls with a purpose . . . and that purpose is the absolute political destruction of the two-faced Phillips, his running-mates and the scalawag leaders who hand-picked the "Republican" candidates and financed this two-party threat to white conservative unity.

Additional insight into Rubel Phillips' "character" is provided by these facts:

MARRIAGE MILL

Rubel Phillips served as Circuit Clerk of Alcorn County from 1952 to 1956. Using that position of public trust, Phillips became the State's number one "marriage mill" operator. He kept the circuit clerk's office open day and night to provide marriage licenses to one and all on a production-line basis. The Mississippi Legislature had to pass a special "waiting period" law to stop Rubel Phillips' type of "marriage mill."

NEGRO VOTER REGISTRATION

Phillips has bragged that during his tenure as circuit clerk he registered more Negroes to vote in Alcorn County than had been registered in any Mississippi county since Reconstruction Days.

IMPROPER INFLUENCE

Rubel Phillips was elected a Public Service Commissioner in 1956, and became chairman of the Commission. Although the Legislature raised the commissioners' salaries to $10,000 and gave the Commission added responsibilities and prestige, Phillips' ambition for power drove him to resign at mid-term, to join one of the largest law firms in Jackson, and to influence the appointment of his brother, Hal Phillips, to replace him on the Public Service Commission.

Thus, Rubel Phillips retained the power of a Public Service Commissioner while becoming a practicing attorney who, for money, would represent those regulated by the Commission. The legal firm that Rubel Phillips joined did and does now represent utility companies, motor freight lines and other clients who are regulated by the Public Service Commission on which Hal Phillips sits as a member.

Hal Phillips today retains his commissioner's post while he manages brother Rubel's "Republican" campaign . . . and Hal attempts to use the commissioner's power to bring pressure on those regulated by the Public Service Commission to support his brother, Rubel.
